When revising and editing your assignment, ask yourself...

- Does my introduction or opening paragraph prepare the reader for what follows?

Is my essay clearly structured?

- Does my assignment have a clear introduction, a body and a definite conclusion?
- Does the assignment advance in logical stages?
- Are the major points connected? Are the relationships between them expressed clearly?
- Do the major points all relate to the topic and contribute to answering the task or question?

Are my paragraphs clearly connected and coherent?

- Does each paragraph begin with a topic sentence?
- Do the sentences flow smoothly and logically from point to point? Does each sentence clearly follow on from the one before?
- Does each paragraph state its case clearly and completely, or should there be more evidence/ detail?
- Are there adequate transitions between sentences and paragraphs? Are transitions varied or are they all the same kind?

- Are facts and opinions supported with examples or explanations where necessary?

Is my written expression appropriate?

- Have I used direct and clear language?

- Is there a clear distinction between my thoughts and words and those of the author(s) I've read and cited?
- Are quotations properly introduced? Are they accurate? Are they formatted correctly?
- Do the quotations add evidence or provide an authoritative voice, or am I letting the author(s) speak for me? Would writing it in my own words be more effective?

Have I remained within or exceeded the set word limit?
